Building just shell, say speakers at fine arts center groundbreaking

To the people who are realizing the "fulfillment of a dream," in the new fine arts center Prophet-educator Hugh B. Brown said Wednesday, "I bring blessings and greeting for all those who have anything to do with this building."

ELDER BROWN, main speaker for the groundbreaking ceremonies, is second counselor in the First Presidency of the LDS Church.

Representing BYU, Vice President Harvey L. Taylor conducted the ceremonies in the quadrangle north of the library, before an audience of more than 300 dignitaries, educators, students and other interested persons.

MRS. WILKINSON represented President Ernest L. Wilkinson, who is in Washington D.C. Concerning the new building, Pres. Brown said, "The necessary part is the people involved; the building is only a shell."

OTHER SPEAKERS were as follows:

Mayor of Provo City, Verl Dixon: "On behalf of the community, I give honor to the LDS Church and to others who made the building possible."

ALFRED BROWN, contractor for the project, said that his firm will do its best to insure that every phase of this building will be of the highest quality.

Physical Plant Director Sam Brewster said, "Where we are today was a pear orchard; it is becoming a very pretty place."

DEAN OF FINE ARTS Con-an Mathews said that "Any program ought to be greater than (Continued on page 3)

GROUNDBREAKERS, WELL—"This is the way to do it," says Elder Hugh B. Brown, main speaker at Wednesday's groundbreaking ceremony, to Contractor Alfred Brown, as they antic in front of gathering crowds before ceremony.

FESTIVAL PREPARATION — Preparing the BYU show for Wednesday night's "Panorama" show are Hier Joe, on roof, Kay McAllister, with long-handled paint brush, and Errol Farr, cleaning paint off benches.

4th of July celebration giantic welfare project

Another Fourth of July celebration in the world—bar none—will be compared with this year's, said Francis Rowe, chairman of the "Panorama" event of this year's Provo Festival.

FESTIVAL, in its 11th year, is a cooperative venture of six Provo stakes, and will annually employ approximately 3,500 persons, Rowe said.

Hold all monetary profit for the welfare funds of the community, Rowe said. Tickets to "Panorama" are sold by the wards and ward keeps the profit. Tickets it sells, he explained.

PRIME CUT of the Provo Festival will be the "Palma" show, reflecting the American musical history, Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the BYU Stadium.

A show will be a gymnastic exhibition accompanied by extra music. Rudy Moore, instructor in physical education, will direct the exhibition.

MONTHLYLY 300 distinguished performers, including dancers, 100 children and Utah's greatest musical stars, will portray the development of the music's musical frontiers, said Rowe.

TOU CHENEY, BYU graduate who starred in many student-produced operas during her undergraduate years; John

Bernhard, administrative assistant to President Ernest L. Wilkinson; and Ramona Bernhard, Dr. Bernhard's wife who will direct the Utah Valley Opera Association's summer production of "Kismet," will team up

Clinger Sisters to sing during dance

Four Orem girls who have been singing professionally since November but have had no formal lessons will entertain during intermission of the "Yankee Doodle Dandy" dance Friday night.

THE CLINGER SISTERS are Melody, 15; Peggy, 13; Patsy, 11; and Deborah, 9. Leesa, 5, occasionally sings with them, just for fun.

The girls, who recently started singing as a barbershop quartet, have performed extensively in the Salt Lake, Provo and Orem areas, according to their mother, Mrs. J. Aaron Clinger. They recently returned from Kansas City where they were guest singers at the International Quartet Contest.

MRS. CLINGER explained that the girls' first singing experience was gained when the family foved to Kentucky about 10 years ago and on a 30 mile trip to church services sang to keep their minds off the heat. Melody, 6 at the time, and Peggy, 4, were the first of the sisters to sing together.

As the younger girls reached 4 they joined the group, Mrs. Clinger said.

THE CLINGER sisters have future invitations to Chicago, Pennsylvania and California, Mrs. Clinger said, but their only definitely-arranged professional appearance will be in California in a variety show entitled "Sweet Adeline" in December. The quartet will also appear in the Fourth of July Panorama show in the BYU Stadium.

Friday's dance will be at 8:30 p.m. in the Smith Family Living Center.

Activity cards will admit students, according to Glenda Barnes, studentbody secretary. A 25 cent charge will be made of those not having cards, she said.

The Ya Men band will play and refreshments will be served. "Stag is the style," Miss Barnes emphasized. Dress should be casual. emphasized. Dress should be casual.

'61 Wye Mag wins 2 awards from art show

by Diana McFarland
Universe Reporter

The May, 1961, issue of Wye Magazine has been awarded two top prizes in a San Francisco art show of published materials.

THE MAGAZINE received the award of "Best Piece in the Show," as well as "Best Booklet," from the Art Directors and Artists Club of San Francisco, according to Dr. Clinton F. Larson, faculty adviser for the 1961 issue.

Printed at the BYU Press, the publication was in competition with professional publishers of all types of printed work, Dr. Larson pointed out.

THE MAGAZINE cover featured a photograph of a small Mexican girl on the verge of tears, he commented. The photograph was part of the photo-essay, "San Miguel" by Reil Francis.

Art work for the publication was done by Art Editor Warren Luch, who is currently employed with an art firm in Salt Lake City. Editor was Larry McBride.

The magazine featured such literary works as Paul Blum's short story, "Rise to Power"; "The Roaring Nineties at BY Academy," by David Wilkinson; "Sea Bird" by Charis Greenwood and Nodyn Mitchell's "Poem."

"THE MAGAZINE was a group effort combining the forces of the Wye staff, the BYU Press and the contributors." Dr. Larson remarked. "I am extremely proud of this accomplishment. It indicates that BYU can produce students on the undergraduate level, who can compete in a professional world."

Dr. Larson displays the framed award certificate in his office at 302 McKay Bldg.

Tuesday talk to be given by Clyde sub

A man who has for two and one-half years been administrative assistant to Utah Governor Geo. D. Clyde will address the patriotic assembly at 10 p.m. in the Smith Auditorium. The speaker, Lawrence J. Burdette, also been legislative assistant to Congressman Henry M. Dixon in Washington, D.C.

MURTON received the bachelor's degree at the University of Utah, master's degree at Utah State University and doctorate at George Washington University.

He taught political science at the College where he was vice president of the student body. Burdette is married and is father of four children.

Y Tutoring Service offers help to summer school flounders

Heat, vacation urge and just plain hard classes make the services of tutors necessary during summer school as well as during the regular terms.

STUDENTS who wish to obtain special tutoring help during the summer are encouraged to contact the Tutoring Service in the Academic Standards Office, A-245 Smoot Administration Bldg., according to Mark Larsen, Tutoring Service director. At this office students may inquire about tutors available; then they may contact the tutor of their choice to make arrangements for a session.

IF FEES ARE involved they are paid directly to the tutors, Mr. Larsen said.

Graduates and advanced undergraduates who wish to tutor during the summer are requested to inform the Tutoring Service.

Educator, Clarke, gets second call to Iranian schools

Dr. A. John Clarke, assistant dean of the College of Education, has left for Washington, D. C. in preparation for an educational mission to Iran.

THE BYU EDUCATOR will spend six weeks in orientation at the nation's capital before leaving for two years of assistance to the Iranian government. This is an appointment of the U. S. Foreign Service of the Department of State.

Dr. Clarke will conduct a study in curriculum development on the high school level for the Iranian Ministry of Education. It is a continuation of work which he started on a previous mission to Iran in 1953-55.

MRS. CLARKE and the couple's daughter, Kathy, a freshman at BYU, will accompany Dr. Clarke on the trip.

He received the BS degree in 1938, the MS degree in 1942, both at BYU, and the M. Ed. at Colorado University in 1950. He joined the BYU staff in 1938 and holds rank of professor of educational administration. He formerly was acting dean of the College of Education.

vice so their names may be made available to students seeking academic aid, Mr. Larsen said.

Campus films set for summer

A continuation of University Cinema and Film Favorites will entertain Summer School students, according to Toni Jensen of Audio-Visual Communications.

"PICNIC" AND "Inn of Sixth Happiness" are movies to be shown in the University Cinema program. Cinema movies are shown Monday nights at 7:30 p.m. in 181 Knight Bldg. Admission is 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children, Miss Jensen said.

"Glen Miller Story" will be one of the Film Favorites shown this summer. These films are shown at 4:15 and 7 p.m. Wednesday through Friday and 2 and 7 p.m. Saturday in 187 McKay Bldg. Admission charge is 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

Larsen play tryouts this week

Tryouts for principal roles in a locally produced play, "The Mantle of the Prophet," can be arranged this week with Professor John B. Harris of the English Dept. at Ext. 2602 or at FR 3-4318.

THE PRODUCERS are willing to pay $10 a performance to competent performers in the leading roles, according to Prof. Harris.

The play, authored by Dr. Clinton F. Larsen of the English Dept., dramatizes the conflict between Brigham Young and Sidney Rigdon for leadership of the LDS Church.

Letter to editor...

Daytime watering burns lawns and -

I'm tired of getting wet! That little man on the bicycle with the water sprinklers is very irritating. Periodically he changes the sprinklers right when I'm sitting under a tree eating lunch. A shrill whistle sounds and he yells, "water, you'd better move on or wet you'll be."

GETTING WET on the BYU campus seems to be accepted by many, but not by me. I'm just thankful our clothes are sanitized. Just try to outguess the sprinklers that come from both sides of the lawn and meet "smack dab" in the middle of the sidewalk. Other times you just walk out on the lawn, the side away from the sprinkler, and then return to the sidewalk and resume on your way in this man-made duck weather.

With all these botany majors and scientists, it seems logical that someone would know you don't water lawns in the hot sun. Just in case anyone does not know, IT BURNS IT.

How about it? Can't the lawns be watered before I get to school at 7 a.m.? I leave at 5 p.m.

Trackmen Leave country to Europe

A group of 25 representatives of BYU Wednesday left on a tour of seven European countries, in each of which there are missionaries of the LDS Church. The men weren't missionaries in the strictest sense of the word, however, correspondence was received by the University's Bureau indicates that they are going to Europe. The tourers are members of the BYU track team, on a State Department tour which will even take them to East Berlin. Clarence Robison commented briefly before leaving that he expected the track team to win both the United States and the world championships and do both well. The tracksters have been on several trips to Europe, the first being in 1950.

Volleyball, the 'murals'

John Jay Naylor of the Physical Department announced yesterday that there will be no contests in handball for basketball enthusiasts who are still in the building.

Activities for entry are to be completed in the intramural room Friday at 6 p.m., according to Naylor.

Intercollegiate football program will begin on Monday; however, the teams are still looking for players to round out their rosters.

Contests in other sports will begin this week and early entry blanks may be taken from Naylor's office, 215 Fieldhouse.

Contests which are set to start this week and next are wrestling, pitching, tennis, basketball and volleyball.

Contests for volleyball will be the name of the team and also the names of the players.

Activities are designed to give a try to those who would not normally be playing sports, according to Naylor.

Handball contests are covered, according to Naylor, are the horseshoe double and table tennis double.

Money in a pocketbook or purse always seems to get spent faster than money in the bank. That's why so many people who get ahead financially control their money in a First Security checking account. When they receive money, they deposit it — then pay bills or make purchases by check.

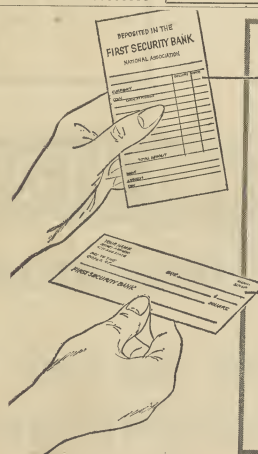

Net result: they have a record of all expenditures — and we do all the bookkeeping for them, periodically forwarding a statement of all deposits and expenditures as well as returning cancelled checks.

Publishing firms show books in Fourth annual BYU exhibit

Books from the majority of national publishing firms will be on display today and Friday on the first floor of the McKay Bldg.

THE FOURTH annual Bookmen's Exhibit, sponsored by the Utah-Arizona Bookmen's Association and the College of Education, features the latest textbooks and other teaching materials and resource books used in the field of education. The latter category includes any book which might be found in the nation's schools. Dean Christensen, chairman of teacher education at BYU, said.

Books of a dozen or more publishers are being shown, according to Dean Christensen. He said 15 were represented last year.

Mr. Christensen explained that the co-sponsoring Bookmen's Association is made up of representatives of publishing companies.

to do a number from "Music Man."

DAVE JACOBS, a graduate student at BYU who has been seen in many school talent shows, will do a number.

Bob Thompson, who graduated from BYU two years ago and was among the "Provo Bureau Orient" tourers in the summer of 1960, will sing.

THE SALT FLATS Quartet, a renowned group in Salt Lake City, according to Mr. Rowe, will perform.

The hour-long show will be backed by a 20-piece orchestra made up of BYU concert band members and other local musicians and directed by Larry Eastman, understudy of Concert Band Director Dick Ballou. The band will play such numbers as "Seventy-Six Trombones" and "Stars and Stripes Forever."

THE FINALE number, featuring approximately 100 twirlers, Mr. Rowe said, will lead into a gigantic display of fireworks. According to Evan Billings, director of Provo's fireworks displays for the past 10 years, $2,000 worth of noise and light will be shot into the air.

Another campus-hosted part of the Festival will be a patriotic sermon delivered by Elder Harold B. Lee, member of the Council of the Twelve, Sunday at 8:15 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

MOVIE and television actress Roberta Shore, star of Walt Disney's "Shaggy Dog" and appearing in "Bob Cummings Show," "Father Knows Best," and other television shows, will be grand marshal of the Fourth of July parade beginning at 9:30 a.m. Appearing in the parade will be Miss Liberty Belle and her attendants—Sheryl Ladine Allred, a graduate of Provo High who plans to enter BYU in the fall; Linda Smith, a junior in fine arts at BYU; and Charlotte Britsch, a 1962 graduate in English.

Other events of the Freedom Festival are "Freedom Frolic," a traditional dance featuring Wes Barry's nine-piece orchestra, in the East Provo State House, Saturday at 8:30 p.m.; a carnival; a Relief Society bazaar Saturday and Monday through Wednesday in North Park at 5th N. and 5th West; a children's parade Monday at 7 p.m.; and a rodeo Monday and Tuesday at the fairgrounds at 8 p.m.

Extension office sets open house

Forum and devotional speeches, Leadership Week lectures, special conference speeches, Joseph Smith Seminar talks and many other publications are available and will be featured at an open house Friday 1 to 5 p.m.

Extension Publications Editor Virginia Brand Smith said the open house is planned "To show where we are and to get acquainted." The new location is the Young House 507 E. 800 North in Provo.

Light refreshments will be served.

MRS. SMITH SAID that seminary and institute teachers as well as students are faculty members are invited.

Still openings for arena play

A few tickets are still available for the Friday and Saturday performance of "Elizabeth the Queen," being presented at the arena theatre in C-94 Smoot Administration Bldg., according to Dr. Harold I. Hansen, director.

The play, which stars visiting actress Flo French in the title role, will be presented at 8 p.m. Friday, and Saturday's curtain time is 8:15 p.m.
